"Inspired by a conversation with her own child, Graciela's takes her experience as a decorated Air Force veteran and mother to create this bilingual children's book. The story captures a special moment as Captain Mama explains to her son, Marco about all the different colorful patches. The patches serve as way for Captain Mama to share what it means to serve in the U.S. Air Force. Good Night Captain Mama is a great story to read with your child as it reminds parents and children alike that parents are not only mamas and papas but also are heroes in their children's eyes." -Review by Linda Castillo in the ALA-affiliated REFORMA newsletter

A portion of all sales will be donated to V-WISE (Veteran Women Igniting the Spirit of Entrepreneurship), a training program operated by the Institute for Veterans and Military Families at Syracuse University, which educates and mentors women veterans through entrepreneurship to pursue self-employment as a post-service career. Thanks for supporting Captain Mama and her mission to honor women serving (and who have served) in the U.S. military!
